How do we cope with the emergency situation?

News from Corsica, France

Partner : Gem U Scontru

The GEM U Scontru in Corsica, although operating in holiday mode this summer, has nevertheless ensured a permanence for our disabled beneficiaries. In fact, the animators were available in shifts to meet specific needs either by email, text message or, more often, by telephone.

The usual activities could not be carried out in the best conditions, and for some members the situation was more complex and the fact that they were not able to take part in collective actions was not always a pleasant experience.

The preferred activities remain the outdoor ones, such as picnics in shady places or near beaches. In such occasions our members could thus meet each other, exchange ideas, take part in games and share good times together. A programme was proposed to them for the coming month, crossing fingers to have the legal conditions to perform it. These activities are a means of socialisation and regaining confidence, offering possibilities for daily life and even work inclusion.

Waiting for the good days to come, here are some examples of what we used to do together:

News from Belgium

Partner: UNESSA ASBL

As soon as the confinement was finished, UNESSA and its partners have restarted the activities of Cap Inclusion project.

As a reminder, Cap Inclusion aims at supporting job seekers with disabilities researching on the traditional work market. It is a question of promoting the socio-professional insertion path through job coaching, professional training, internship, and active job search, all this within a specific framework which considers the profile of the intern: his competences assessment, his knowledge and skills, his motivation.

Cap Inclusion organizes the psycho-social support for the intern, the discovery of profession(s) (discovery internships) and the definition of a personal professional project. From this, we consider employment with personalized job coaching or, if necessary, orientation towards training.

Cap Inclusion inspired the European project Eu Cap (Erasmus + KA2) which aims to build a complete and efficient pedagogical tool (aimed at employing people with light disability) by combining the results of Cap Inclusion and the good practices identified in Europe.

This pedagogical project, which will be labeled in the European area, will take into account not only the preliminary accompaniment to employment but also the follow-up of the intern in the company and the involvement of his professional environment (colleagues, HR, specific arrangements, etc.).

C'ENTRO Association

Everybody wanted to go back TO WORK! The FB post shows Brigata Gustabili, the catering group of the social cooperative Titoli Minori (C'entro's associate), serving the brunch during a Multiplier Event of an Erasmus+ project, Preg-Equal. As the participants could not stay together and have lunch, Brigata Gustabili prepared everything with creativity and taste.

The summer period and part of September offered a break into the sanitary restrictions, and the third sector did enormous efforts to reopen services with the new rules respected. The persons with disabilities, even more isolated during the lockdown due to their "fragility", expressed loudly the will to go back to work, where possible, and they demonstrated that understanding quickly the new sanitary obligations was possible...sometimes with the facilitated reading.

Other organizations associated to C'entro, like IREA - <https://www.morinipedrina.it> , continue the paper and ceramics work for the two shops they manage in Este, Padua Province, inspite all the obvious difficulties.
